Jaya Bachchan ran into Manoj Kumar during the making of the film. She called him a bully and said that his "bharata" image was just a show. He was sure that she admired him and invited her to premiere of her film. She did not accept his invitation, saying that she was a Muslim, not a Hindu. He said that he could not understand her, since she herself admitted that she did not believe in God. In 2004, Bachchan took part in the creation of the film "The Hindu" directed by Ravi Bhaduri, he played the role of an Indian youth who went to an English school in London, but was also a staunch Hindu. became a hit with the film's anthem, the evergreen song " Ek Pyaar. Author Â· Cinematography Â· Film . com As a child, I dreamed of becoming a veterinarian and caring for animals. And now I just love the movie. It is worth watching for both adults and children. Highly recommended for family viewing. The film tells the love story of a girl named Sarah and a young man named Raj. Raj is a guy from a poor family, Sarah is a girl from high society. They go to school together. Raj can't buy Sarah candy like the other boys because his mom won't let him spend his pocket money on sweets. fffad4f19a
