Anwar started his PAS-led government in May 2018, and soon pushed through a raft of changes, including a repeal of sodomy laws, recognition of same-sex marriages and extending benefits to transgender people. The new sodomy law will become effective on Jan 1 2020. - Advertisement - Mahathir was responding to a question from Reuters after a meeting of leaders from Southeast Asia on the sidelines of the annual Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) Summit in Singapore. "We made a promise. It is foolish to break a promise, and what you said is at the meeting, what you said is as good as done," Mahathir said. "We did promise in a club that we are going to abolish the sodomy law and we will try to do so as soon as possible. We promised. People will be able to have sex in their carriages when they travel in the carriages. "This time we are quite willing to keep our promises." The law was last amended in 1985, with consensual same-sex acts between men being only punishable with a fine. - Advertisement - Before Anwar
