In this article I would like to describe how to build an animation in Android Studio. 1. You can build such an animation in Android Studio. 2. You can save the animation as an mp4 file and share it with you friends for free. 3. You can use this animation in your application in 3 ways 1. You can import it as an image. 2. You can add it as a background. 3. You can create an animation recorder and animate the animation you want and export it as an mp4 file. What is an Animation Animation is a series of 3D images that are connected to each other in a sequence. An animation is like a piece of music (Stereo) or a short story (A movie). For example: animations may contain text, sound, and color graphics. Animation can be used in games, kids, education, advertisement and many more. Animation provides a great experience for the user. Animation has 3 basic layers : Animation Playing Layer : This is the Actual Animation Content. Animation Presenter Layer : This is a point in time during the animation. This point in time can be changed by using Frame Animation Techniques. Animation Graphic Layer : This layer is the Graphics of the Animation. Animation Presenter Layer : You can select any frame of the animation and move it to a new location. You can animate the color of any frame. You can do all the above thing. Animation Playing Layer : Images use the same animation playing technology as the one available in Flash. Animation Presenter Layer : Images use the same animation presenter technology as the one available in Flash. Animation Graphic Layer : Images use the same animation graphic technology as the one available in Flash. Animation controls There are two ways to create an animation. A) Animation Creation using Google Developers or MSDN/API(Microsoft/Apex): 1) Using Google Developer Tools or Google Developers API and MSDN/API: The best way to create animation is using Google Developer tools or Google Developers API and MSDN/API. Google Developer tools or Google Developers API and MSDN/API is a set of feature that allow you to create animations easily. 2) Using Flash and ActionScript: This is the old method which was used to create animations. However Flash and ActionScript are the
