Winpcin is a siemens software for the configuration of the sinumerik for the microcameras, this software is compatible with win98, winxp, vista. I don't have anything against video recording or being able to record videos. But I can't stand videos that feature you grabbing something off the desktop and showing it to all the world via the Internet. It's OK when it happens here and there, but for some reason I can't stand more than that. There's just something about that video that makes me cringe. It's sort of like the watermarking I just heard about, only more invasive. I'll be looking at something like Bebop as an alternative to Windows Movie Maker. I've also considered Blackmagic Disk itself. Thanks for sharing your thoughts and telling me about Blackmagic. Check back for updated/new articles soon.
