File Transfer app. - Free (totaly Free) - View files remotely - Very simple interface. Features: Can view the content of the files Remotely access the content of your files Windows apps are installed, used and updated as per the schedules decided by the users. Windows upgrades also bring new features to the user interfaces. Thus, one needs to upgrade Windows apps to stay updated. Since upgrading apps can be a cumbersome task, we will present you some hints. Choose Update Free tool in Windows Control Panel to help you find and update the older apps, such as Install the Missing updates in Windows The app lets you search for the apps that are outdated. One will need to choose the apps that are not installed. Once the apps are found, the app will display the apps in the system tray. One needs to hover the mouse over the app icon and choose the "Update Now" option to download and install the updates. Windows Update will then install the missing updates. Use a third party app to easily update Windows apps Windows developers make sure that the apps are well-tested before they are published. Thus, the apps don't have any bugs and they can be very stable. However, some apps get outdated and many users are not aware that these are the apps that have to be updated to remain updated. If the app is not used frequently, you can keep it in the system tray and choose the update option, when the time for an update comes. Also, apps can be installed via the Windows Installer. The app is quite stable, since it can find many apps and check for updates. However, if you find it difficult to search for the apps, use a third party app for Windows 8 and Windows 10. The app can search for updates and can update apps as well. You can also force update apps and can update apps if you want. However, one should update apps from time to time and not wait for years to update. The concept of cloud computing came to the fore with Google Apps. In Windows, the concept came with Microsoft Office 365 and now we have Windows Store apps as well. With the inclusion of cloud-based apps, one can also sync data. However, Microsoft has not made use of the cloud technology in its Microsoft Office 365. Office 365 data is saved in the SkyDrive or OneDrive. However, the in-app data is not the same. There are several apps that can sync data and Outlook (or any other third party apps) can use them to sync data. Some apps, however, cannot use SkyDrive or OneDrive as a storage option. In this article, we will discuss how to sync data with such apps. Use a third party app to sync data There are several apps that can sync data. One will need to choose the app that suits the need. WordSync
