IMDb My Mother, the Wife, is a 2015 Indian Hindi-language drama film written and directed by Mahira Khan. It is her first Hindi film, and the first film she has starred in since her 2010 Bollywood movie Nishabd. She began filming for the movie at her home in Mumbai, India, in November 2014, and ended production on February 2014. The film premiered at the 2015 Toronto International Film Festival, and also has its Chinese premiere at the Shanghai International Film Festival.

Synopsis The film is about a woman named Nirja, who lives with her parents as an only child and is unmarried. Her father, a veteran IAS officer, has been assigned to a secret job. At the train station, she meets a mysterious man who asks for help in a haunted house, and she agrees. The man takes her to the house and reveals himself as the ghost of a man who committed suicide by hanging in the house. They then proceed to fix her father's device to scare away the ghost. The next night, Nirja, accompanied by her friend Raj, meets the ghost at a party and learns that she has been cursed to die a virgin. The ghost teaches Nirja how to satisfy a man, and the next day, they meet the ghost again when they go on an adventure with her father. They manage to solve the mystery of the ghost and return home.
