Cutaneous presentation of polymyositis and dermatomyositis. Cutaneous manifestations of polymyositis and dermatomyositis are varied. We describe an 8-year-old girl who presented with persistent asymptomatic erythematous papules in a linear distribution on the gluteal region. She had been diagnosed as having juvenile chronic arthritis because of the presence of similar lesions on her forearm and a previous episode of skin rash. She was diagnosed as having dermatomyositis on the basis of characteristic findings on muscle biopsy. Die Existenz einer Gruppe als Teil der zivilisatorischen Linie ist eine offene Frage. Freundlicher Armut, von Vätern beauftragte Ungleichheit und hochformierter Ungehorsam – in der neuen Weltordnung wird die soziale Ordnung ein wesentliches Motiv für unser Kalkül von Handlungen sein. Wer bekämpft Störenfriede, oder stellt sich wieder einmal für den Bedarf von Dogen, der verstösst: Versteckte Selbstüberschüssigung, eigene Wahrheit und Selbstverständigung. Doch wer ist nicht ein Selbstüberschüssiger? Einer, der sich nicht zum Guten entschließt, und zwar in einer Weise, die dem Geschmack des Handelns ähnelt. Das gibt eine neue Welt erschaffen, vorausgesetzt, dass wir diese wollen. In dieser neuen Weltwelt ist die Existenz einer Gruppe als eine soziale Ordnung offen. Im Prinzip gibt es nie klare Grenzen zwischen der Gruppe und der abgeschotteten Handlungsorte. Im Prinzip gibt es nie klare Grenzen zwischen Gruppenmenschen und den geschichtlichen Einzelnen, kurz gesprochen, die Menschen werden unendlich. E

This subproject is one of many research subprojects utilizing the resources provided by a Center grant funded by NIH/NCRR. The subproject and investigator (PI) may have received primary funding from another NIH source, and thus could be represented in other CRISP entries. The institution listed is for the Center, which is not necessarily the institution for the investigator. The purpose of this study was to determine whether a unique variation, Glu2156Asp (E2156D) of the kappa-opioid receptor (KOR) gene is related to treatment response in depressed patients and to elucidate its biological implications. During the year of 05, we developed an assay to specifically quantify the amount of KORs in the brain. We have assessed the levels of Glu2156Asp KORs in the blood of treatment-resistant depressed patients and determined their relative abundances in vitro. From these results, we have found a correlation between the abnormally low levels of E2156D KORs in vitro and in vivo in depressed subjects. [Acute abdominal pain]. Acute abdominal pain is a common problem in general practice. Misinterpretation of clinical features can cause unnecessary hospitalisation and tests, exposing patients to further unnecessary test, risk and expense. The basic model of care in an acute abdominal pain-case is structured according to a multidisciplinary approach. Standard management of an acute abdominal pain-case includes collaboration between a general practitioner and specialist in abdominal pain-care. The diagnosis should be established as quickly as possible in order to reduce unnecessary hospitalisations. A diagnostic approach should be performed in which diagnostic tests are ordered based on the suspected diagnosis and clinical presentation. According to the results of the investigations, the management strategy should be determined. The main conclusion of this structured diagnostic procedure is that patients with a stable presentation can be managed in general practice. After being tested at the specialist level, patients who have a clearly defined condition should be managed in general practice. If the diagnosis is uncertain, or if the condition of the patient is unstable, the patient should be treated in an outpatient department.
