An "educational" pope, many of his addresses and sermons have a spirituality that speaks of him as a man of God. On the occasion of his election he delivered the following: "People of Rome, I know the tenderness of the piety of your heart. Have faith in God and he will stand by you." This heartwarming quality is reflected in his letters and writings and those of his successors. He warmly embraced the Benedictine Rule of St. Benedict and emphasized its virtues in a Benedictine chant (Ein Seitenalem). After remaining
