and after a moment you are done! You can also upgrade your software to anyTV Pro for an additional charge. Cost: Free Coowilli Windows 10 is a reliable video download and streaming application that features auto-play videos, subtitle support, as well as progress bar in the bottom-right corner of the screen. It allows you to choose multiple file types in different qualities and resolutions, and you can also download videos from YouTube, playlists and pages, and use it as an online video player. Despite its many capabilities, the app is a bit of a mess, though. The main window is nothing short of unorganized, and it has no customizations to offer. There are no options on the bottom-right corner, and you cannot customize how much space to occupy. Ad-riddled installation and unorganized look Coowilli Windows 10 is optimized for a Windows 7 / Windows 8 operating system, and it only works with Windows Media Player installed, which is a bit of a hassle. The setup process, on the other hand, is a bit of an ordeal, as it offers to download several programs that you do not necessarily need, such as RealPlayer, WinAMP and Quick Time Player. The interface you come by looks very simple and user-friendly, and it only consists of a few buttons, a pane to view the video feed and another one to display all available folders. Unfortunately, there are no options on the main window, except for providing you with a description of the video content. And although there are a bunch of fancy titles that you can click on to navigate to the video sources you like, such as Netflix, 4K TV, Vimeo and others, the software offers no custom anyTV Free is a tool that lets you watch TV channels and listen to radio stations directly from your computer, with the help of a good Internet connection and without a TV tuner or other additional items. Ad-riddled installation and clean interface It is important to keep an eye out on the setup process, as it offers to download multiple products that you do not necessarily require, yet it is quite easy to skip them. The interface you come by is quite simple and user-friendly, and it only consists of a few buttons, a pane to view the video feed and another one to display all available stations. Consequently, all types of users can find their way around it with ease. View all available stations and play them This software utility comes bundled with multiple TV and radio channels, as well as some videos from all over the world, and they are displayed in the main window as lists, along with name, genre, rating, bitrate and comments. You can play or pause the stream, as well as control the volume and enable a full screen mode. Add other stations, rate them and use a search feature Aside from that, it is also possible to add your own channels along with name, URL, bitrate, type, country and comment (if any), as well as test them with just a click of the button. Channels can be flagged (e.g. working fine, wrong info, duplicate, spam etc.) and rated using a five star system. A search function is available, while you can also filter the channel list according to country, genre, bitrate and flag. Last but not least, it is important to keep in mind that a steady Internet connection is crucial, or else the video quality might suffer. Conclusion and performance The program uses a moderate amount of CPU and memory resources therefore not hindering the computer's performance, and it did not crash or freeze during our tests. All in all, anyTV Free is a decent tool for watching TV online, with an intuitive interface and a good response time, provided you have a good Internet connection. If you are interested in more features, you should know a pro version is also available, called anyTV Pro.
