Virtual Agents are introduced in a more tactical fashion, giving players the option to choose and develop their own virtual agent for a tactical masterclass and then the ability to play alongside that custom-built agent. This new feature will allow the player to take possession of the short passing virtual agent in possession of the ball and feed it the ball to pass to a player of their choice. Missions, which were first introduced in FIFA 16, return to make a comeback. A new set of signature rivalries have been created for each respective competition to make the game feel fresh and unique. The rewards and penalties system has been slightly tweaked and the Scouting Report added as part of the Team of the Week and Squad Builder. A new feature added to Goalkeeper Training is "Instant Defending." The goalkeeper can now choose to play a quick one-touch-only goal kick in order to instantly defend against any attackers located anywhere in the designated zone. Respite mode has been added to the match engine. It allows the player to go to their own offside trap and end the game there, or press a button at the end of the half to go straight to a bonus round if they don't have time to play one. Additional mini games have been created to unlock parts of the game. Leaderboards have been improved, with new leaderboards added for 8v8 and team modes. Players can also compare their results to those of their friends across all platforms. The 3-on-3 mini-games have been tweaked with the addition of a "Tone for Tone" mode. It brings back the sound from the classic 4-4-2 and 3-4-3 formations, boosting the intensity of the match as the players have a direct impact on the outcome of the match. Online functionality has been overhauled and has been improved across the board. Friendlies have been introduced and the community mode is now completely overhauled. The community gives you tools to help you build your favorite team, including team name suggestions, kits, managers and jerseys for your team. You can set up your own draft group, invite your friends into your community and have control over the members you want to be in your group. The community also offers new tools for discovering players and will suggest players to join your team, and you have control over who you invite into your group. A new and improved Matchbook will also show you different fixtures and the online

FIFA (stylized as FIFA) is a series of sports video games published by Electronic Arts featuring team sports. The games are developed by EA Canada and published by Electronic Arts. Created as a spin-off of the Ultimate Team mode (inspired by soccer's real-life counterpart), the series features major players in the sport from around the world. FIFA was first published in September 1994 by Infogrames for the PC, Sega Saturn, PlayStation and DOS platforms. It was then expanded to the Game Boy in December 1994, and finally, a Nintendo 64 version was published in November 1998. The series continued to expand to other platforms, and was later licensed to other developers such as Interplay Entertainment and Konami. FIFA was originally designed to compete against the established sport simulation series of the time, and as such, it was released for all of the major consoles and platforms at the time (except for Nintendo 64). With the addition of video game consoles, and especially the first consoles to feature full motion video, development shifted towards realism, eventually resulting in the sport becoming a set of the main titles in the sports genre. FIFA remains successful, and continues to be played by millions of people all over the world. The company that now owns EA is Electronic Arts, which was founded in 1982 by Michael and Kathleen Brown. The company is currently headquartered in Redwood City, California. Gameplay FIFA games span a wide variety of gameplay styles, covering all areas of the sport. The games are usually focused on realistic gameplay, resulting in a large amount of detail in the on-field action. While FIFA games before FIFA 19 were more blocky and unrealistic, FIFA 19's gameplay has evolved to be much more realistic. FIFA series features a gameplay dynamic known as "explosion" mechanics in every game mode. The key objective of any player in the game is to score a goal, which is automatically done at the end of the half. However, the player can score even without the ball, if they make sure to score before the opponent. If they manage to score a goal, they receive a score and possibly get a bonus that can give them an advantage in the next round. The players are assigned roles based on their skill and attributes, and this is reflected in the game's rules. For example, shooting and passing are based on realism: passing is done by pressing the A button and releasing it, while shooting is done by pressing A and releasing it while in
