But if you notice in the phpmyadmin folder, it the file dont match the folder name. We are planning to use the new version, but we dont know how to solve this problem. A: If your site works fine from localhost/127.0.0.1 that indicates the issue is not on the server. Most likely the issue is in your.htaccess file (assuming that PHPMyAdmin is the only thing you're getting this problem). Try inserting this directive in the.htaccess file (this directive won't work unless the file is chmoded +x): php_value auto_prepend_file "/path/to/phpmyadmin/setup.php" As to why this happens, I can't be certain but I'd assume that PHPMyAdmin is trying to find a setup.php file at localhost/phpmyadmin, but it's looking in /path/to/phpmyadmin/setup.php. A: I had the same error message but it turned out to be a failed mcrypt extension. Check if you have PHP mcrypt extension (php_mcrypt.dll) installed and make sure it's enabled. If you do have it installed but not enabled, you have to disable it and then restart apache. See: If you don't have the mcrypt extension installed, install and enable it and restart apache. World Health Organization (WHO) Director-General Margaret Chan has made a statement in Tokyo on the first day of the International Film Festival (IFFF). Chan, who made her comments at the Chan International Film Festival Awards Ceremony, declared, "No one should remain untouched by the Ebola epidemic." The Director-General emphasized that the Ebola epidemic must be approached with the utmost urgency, care and sensitivity. Recalling that the first emergence of Ebola occurred in 1970's Sudan and that for decades, the cases are rarely reported, Chan explained that the Ebola virus was deemed as a forgotten disease, and little was known about the virus. She added that "Since Ebola appeared in 2014, panic, fear and rumors have raised across the globe" as "an underestimated disease with serious repercussions." "It has brought a new dimension to our lives with fears, uncertainty, lack of understanding. And often, the virus has been linked to religion," said Chan. She called on the international community to cooperate to ensure that there are no more Ebola outbreaks in the future. The Director-General also called on the public to inform immediately if they learn about an Ebola case. At the ceremony, WHO was presented with the first prize for the best European documentary at the Film Festival: The Long Way Back, made by Niv Engel for Israel. The first prize for the best Asian/Oceania documentary was presented to Al Jazeera. The film documented the Ebola outbreak in West Africa and shows how the global response has been hampered by political interference.Q: Lightning Web Components: Testing HTML input component in application I'm trying to write a test for a lightning component with a basic HTML input component. I do not have access to an org but I am in Developer edition. I can't seem to get it to work. I created a test class but the error below is thrown. How do I get around this? The input component is a required field on all screens. @isTest class HelloInputComponentTest{ @isTest static void testHelloInputComponent(){ //Test Setup //Call the component from a
