* **Layer 6:** Layer 6 offers a variety of tools to alter the masking of other layers. Figure 14-14 shows how to use Layer 6 to repair a hole in an image. * **Layer 7:** Layer 7 offers tools for drawing directly on the image. This includes a feature that lets you create and combine images into a montage. FIGURE 14-14: A layer mask allows you to edit a layer or transparently alter the pixels of other layers. ## Image Tag You use a `_tag_` — a word or short phrase that appears on-screen — to give your image a name. The default name that you give your image is based on the date and time you save the file. You can replace that default with a name of your own choosing. When you select the image, the Tag dialog box appears, as shown in Figure 14-15. Type a new name for the image and press Enter. FIGURE 14-15: You can edit the name of the image, based on the time and date it was created. When you select a different name, an automatic Save As dialog box appears, offering you the option to save the file under that new name. If you select an existing folder on your computer to save the file, the tag you choose doesn't appear in the dialog box. (If you don't choose an existing folder, the dialog box displays that `_Untitled_ tag` at the bottom of the text box.) By default, Photoshop is set to let you choose a tag for all future images of that type. You can, however, change the default settings to require you to create a tag for each new image. To do so, go to File → Preferences, click the Default button, and then select the Save Tags check box, as shown in Figure 14-16. FIGURE 14-16: Set this option to display the tag-generation box for every new image. ## Monitoring the Layers The Layers panel contains images, shapes, gradients, text, and other objects. You may or may not use all of these elements in your projects, but knowing what's going on at any point in the Layers panel can be useful when creating and editing images. The following sections explain how to use some of the Layers panel's features.

Q: Is "beautiful eyes" a common/typical expression for people having?" Is "beautiful eyes" a common/typical expression for people having?" A: The standard expression is "sweet eyes". There is a common misconception, leading to the somewhat derogatory (at least, it is used as such) "glassy eyes" or, worse, "darting eyes". "Fierce or bright eyes" is an obsolete, though moderately popular, variant for "beautiful eyes". "Staring" or "fixed" eyes should really be called "staring" or "fixed" (or "staring eyes"). As to the general expression "having nice eyes", that is not really common. It has a modicum of currency, though. (I am not sure, but "sweet" may have been used in the sense of "charming" or "pretty" as well.) any degree of certainty that the pistol was being carried by the defendant for any purpose. In fact, in the photographs, the gun is lying on a table. While the inferences to be drawn from this fact could be considered by the jury in determining the purpose for which the gun was carried, there is no evidence in the record that the gun was used for any purpose except to permit the defendant to shoot or injure someone. The evidence produced by the state, in the absence of any objection on the part of the defense, is sufficient to sustain a conviction for carrying a pistol or revolver without a license. Under this record, we are of the opinion that the judgment should be reversed and the cause remanded for further proceedings consistent with the views expressed herein. It is so ordered. COMPTON, C.J., and SADLER, McGHEE and KIKER, JJ., concur. Google AI - pokkol Hi!! read on hn today something similar, I submitted a pull request the same day.It's a standalone script that uses the JSON file from Stackoverflow as input. Q: ZooKeeper returns -1 if not running I'm using ZooKeeper to synchronize the data between nodes in the network. I have a Node which is not working for some reason, I find out by the value that the method gets for the `zkConnected()` returning `-1`. When running the Zookeeper client I can see the nodes however. My code is like this: `ZooKeeper zk = new ZooKeeper("localhost", clientPort, timeoutInSeconds, TimeUnit.SECONDS); String parent = "/node_dir"; zk.create("node_dir/node_name", parent, "/node_dir/node_name", new byte[0], new Watcher[] {new ZooKeeperServerWatcher(zk)});` When running I see the value `-1` for the `zkConnected()` but the nodes are still there. I've tried different values for the `timeoutInSeconds` and have also tried to enter the nodes manually. But I can not get this to work. The nodes are running and I'm connected in the client. A: ZooKeeper does not really stop its operation. According to the client source code, if the `timeoutInSeconds` exceeds the current heartbeat interval, the client will fall back to a stream query instead of checking if the last connection was successful or not. If you want to prevent your nodes from falling back to a stream query, you should set the heartbeat interval to zero: `zk.setConnectionTimeout(0, TimeUnit.MILLISECONDS);` The latest release already takes that into account: `zk.setConnectionTimeout(connectDelay, heartbeatDelay, TimeUnit.MILLISECONDS);`

Q: Flash Builder 4: Flash Pro 5 trial expires I have just installed Flash Builder 4 in order to try out AS3. Now I don't have an ACADON client, nor Adobe desktop, or flash pro 5 to continue to use them. When I use flash pro 5 trial, it is automatically upgrading my client to its full version
