In Photoshop, all the work is done in a separate window, referred to as "the canvas." Open the file and go to File > Open. Choose your preferred image file type. After the file is opened, you can go to File > Place. Select the option you want to use, such as the "Background," "Canvas," or "Layer" menu. The Open dialog box will open. Selecting a Background The first step in using Photoshop is choosing the right background. When choosing the background, you need to choose a texture that will suit your project and the purpose of the image. 1. Choose the Background Type. Click on the menu, and then click on "Background Type." 2. Select the Background Type. Click on "background type." Look at the image you want to use. Choose the one you think will work best.
