It has to have few features. First feature is the page can have a menu on the left side, and some tabs on the right side. I am not sure how to go about it. I would like it to have a search box, and search results. There should also be a database driven contact form with name, email, and message boxes on each page. When you click on contact, there should be a form where you can type in your information and click submit. From there the data would be emailed to me. Next we have to search for a client who has 1cdb3666d
