Audiobook.salt.api.extensions =====. .. currentmodule:: salt.api.extensions `salt.api.extensions` `__` is a collection of salt state extensions that provide functionality to customize how an execution of a module occurs. The ``salt.api.extensions`` module provides three modules: ... code-block:: bash # Import the modules import salt.api.extensions as e # Get the list of available modules available_modules = e.available_modules() # Run custom command with salt-call echo "Hello World" The ``salt.api.extensions.available_modules`` is a list of all the available modules. These could be modules, functions, or any other Salt expression. The ``salt.api.extensions.run_custom`` method can be used to execute a custom module by passing either a module name or a function. In the case of a function, it needs to be given a list of variable arguments. ... code-block:: python # Run a module module.run("test_module") # Run a function e.run_custom("test_function", [{"value"}]) The ``salt.api.extensions.available_modules`` provides a list of the available extensions in a given Salt run. To learn more about them, see the `available extensions` `_. Chromatographic separation of nucleotides using achiral gel electrokinetic chromatography. The structure of achiral gel electrokinetic chromatography (GEL) columns filled with γ-cyclodextrin (CD) -modified silica particles was investigated. Per-O-alkylated β-CD (βCD) modified particles were applied as a stationary phase to evaluate the chromatographic properties of the columns by UV-vis, (1) H
